Etchingham - The Assumption and St Nicholas

The late C14 church was collegiate, with an axial tower plan, rare at this date. It has fine tracery and the many C14 fittings, including stalls, misericords and tiles, as well as brasses and other memorials.

The present Etchingham church had a predecessor, for the rectory is mentioned in 1291 (VCH 9 p216), a unusual in having been rebuilt as a collegiate foundation in the later C14, with close links to the manor. The water meadows near the confluence of the rivers Dudwell and Rother and was moated (4 p191), not for defensive purposes but to keep the water out - flooding is a recurrent problem, most recently in 2000. The moat, now dry, have been identified (JB). The church was remote when built, though today it is near a main road.

W Slater, who restored the present church, suggested the trefoil-headed south doorway of the chancel was C13 work (7 p343) and it is known that unidentifiable foundations were found west of the nave. These could belong to the earlier church or suggest the nave was intended to be longer (VCH 9 ibid). The site of the church is unlikely to have changed significantly from that of any earlier one, as it was close to the manor, which site of the station (SNQ 16 (Nov 1966) p200). Greater certainty emerges after Sir William de Echingham (d1388/89) founded a college of priests to pray for him and his family by the family tombs in the chancel. The contract with T Esshyng, a mason of Betchworth, Surrey, survives, in which he undertook to make five small windows in the year starting Easter 1363 (5 p53). One or more was to have three lights and though the none of three-lights, Salzman suggests this was the intended location. Esshyng's failure to deliver led to the church being abandoned in 1368, after which no more is known, but the fact of the order shows the church was well under way by then.

The church has an axial tower plan, with a tower between nave and chancel. This is seldom found after the 13th century because it was prone to failure especially if, as here, the aisles were continued either side of the tower and it therefore stood on four arches. The plan could be retained from an older church, but more probably resulted from the special circumstances. There are some distinctive features, compared with earlier examples. In particular, the side windows of the tower have half cross-arches and the side-arches are like the arcades. The effect, with the high side windows, is to integrate the tower space into the nave. Almost certainly, the parochial sanctuary was here and the original collegiate foundation used the chancel.

The detail suggests that, as was usual, building started from the east. The chancel, though aisleless and the nave, is longer; Salzman speculated it might be longer than originally intended (ibid), as only five windows were ordered in 1363, whereas seven were needed, but the walls would have been too far advanced to allow for a change and it is more likely that two, probably the westernmost ones which would have been needed later, were ordered separately.

The tracery resembles other in southern Surrey and West Sussex, e.g. the east window at Lindfield. That at Etchingham has five lights with curvilinear tracery above a row of reticulations; if restored, it is as on the Sharpe Collection drawing. The side windows have stepped sills and varied cusped ovals in the heads of the easternmost on other local C14 work. Slater suggested a foreign craftsman was involved (7 p347), but that was before Esshyng had come to light, so this may be discounted. In the bay on the north side are traces of a small chapel blocked doorway (segmental outside and pointed inside) with roof-corbels.

The main interest of the chancel is its fittings (see also SAC 87 (1948) p204), but the renewed crownpost roof copies the original and the others (SAC 87 (1948) p204). High on the north wall is a window.

the entrance to the rood-loft - a figure presumed to be from this was found in the churchyard in the 18th century (p191). The arch from the chancel into the tower, the first to be built, determined the form of those further west, though the arcades are lower. All have octagonal piers or responds and double-chamfered heads, with the tower from work of fifty years before.

The nave has only two bays, though the continuation of the arcade into the tower overcomes what might otherwise have been an awkward proportion. It is shorter than intended (see also 2 p155) and is unlikely to be the entire parish part is 2ft 6in wider than it is long (JB). The nave has two types of segment-headed windows - those to the east have three lights under a curved band of quatrefoils and the others have concave pierced spandrels. The hollow-chamfered north doorway is taller than the south one, which has a window above. The wooden porch, like that at Salehurst, is as old as the church. The clerestory windows in nave and chancel are all similar and resemble the others. Though tall, the that they are later (6 p251) is unlikely, in view of the similarities with the other work.

Except possibly for the top of the tower, work finished at the west end. Pevsner (BE p496) remarked on the lack of 'Perp' features, but his comment overlooks the tracery of the long, relatively narrow west window. The lower part accords with other windows, but in the head is what is in effect a miniature ogee-quatrefoil window. Though this motif did not point to the future, it introduces a novel vertical element. If the tower was completed after this, its design was effectively fixed already, with single trefoiled bell-openings, a plain parapet, a tiled pyramid and a north east stair turret.

The church was probably complete when Sir William was buried in the chancel under a brass (see below) in 1387/88 and there have been few later changes. In 1527 a bequest towards a new roof for 'Our Lady Chapel' (SRS 42 p126) probably refers not to the small chapel formerly to the north, but one at the eastern end of an aisle. No alteration before the C19 is apparent and Slater's restoration in 1856-57 was thorough but careful. His account (see 7) leaves some questions unanswered, in particular how far he rebuilt the nave, as the plan submitted to the ICBS suggests. The tracery was carefully repaired and his new roofs follow the previous, rotten ones. He also retooled and scraped the stonework and probably added the vestry north of the chancel. One oddity is that although Sir Stephen Glynne had seen the north chapel in this position in 1845 (SNQ 16 (Nov 1965) p198), Slater (7 p348) records it as missing only 12 years later. Despite Slater's work, the damp still continued to cause problems and the tower in particular was cracked and out of true, proving to have no foundations. Steel ties inside and out mark repairs by W O Marchant in 1937-38 (ESRO Par 323/4/3), though the tower still leans by 18 inches. There were further repairs to the stonework by Carden and Godfrey (i.e. W.E. Godfrey) between 1962 and 1967 (ICBS).

Fittings and monuments

(Chancel)

Brasses:

- (In front of altar) Sir William de Echingham. His headless, armoured effigy lacks its canopy. A curved inscription in Latin, records the rebuilding of the church and a moralising one at his feet in Norman-French (a late use) gives the time of his death as midnight on 18 January 1387 (1388 by modern reckoning). The brass is given to Series B (see London workshops) and the lettering has similarities with contemporary royal tombs at Westminster and Canterbury (Badham: Cast Effigies, p121).
- (In floor) Sir William de Echingham (d1412), his wife and son, Sir Thomas (d1444) - triple effigies with canopy and shields. Woodman (p21) first noted a similarity to a triple brass of 1441 at West Grinstead, West Sussex, so it probably dates from after the death of Sir Thomas. Both also belong to Series B.

Communion table: C17 with bulbous legs (this has been stolen (JB)).

Glass:

- (East window) Clayton, made by Lavers, 1857 (Ecd 18 (1857) p322). The angels holding shields at the base are probably C14.
- (South aisle, east window) Mayer and Co, 1883 (signed).
- (South aisle, south east window) Curtis, Ward and Hughes, 1913 (JB).

Monument:

- (South side) Thomas Echingham (d1482). Plain marble tomb-chest.
- (By south doorway) John Snepp (d1823) etc. Portrait roundel, signed on neck by G.B. Birch and dated 1859.

Piscinae:

- (South side) Trefoil-headed C14.
- (North side outside, part of former north chapel) Plain and pointed, probably C14.

Stalls and misericords: Tracy dates these to c1375 (p56), suggesting that at least the eastern parts of the church were complete by then. There are 18 places, six along each side and the others across the chancel. The trefoiled arching of the backs is open to the west as a screen. This was joined to the rood above and has been cut down. The fronts have traceried panels and each stall has a misericord. Most are carved with foliage, but several, mainly towards the east, show picturesque and satirical scenes, including a preaching fox and two women in contemporary headresses. The stalls stand on a stone platform, with quatrefoil air-holes.

Sedilia: (South side) Retooled but substantially original, with three ogee-cinquefoil heads on shafts. They are reached by a side projection of the altar-platform, similar to one on the north side

Tiles: (East end) Many C14 ones with similar C19 ones made by Minton's and recently found to follow designs by W.N. Pugin (CT 12 April 2001 p7).

(Nave and aisles)

Brass: Elizabeth Echyngham (d1452) and Agnes Oxenbridge (d1480). This brass has been the subject of much misunderstanding and discussion. Pevsner (BE p497) implies there were two brasses, but there is only one with the inscription plate divided by a vertical line. The relationship between the two has been extensively discussed in a recent study (see 1), which casts much interesting though necessarily speculative light on late mediaeval sexuality. Agnes, though she died much later is the older, for Elizabeth's hair is shown loose and Agnes's effigy is considerably larger. The brass is a palimpsest on the back of one to Thomas Austin, mercer of London, dated 1405 (Mosse p81), it belongs to Series F (see London workshops) and dates from the early 1480s.

Font: Octagonal bowl on clustered shafts with flattened leaf-capitals. These look C13, so the font could be from the earlier church.

Glass:

- (Aisle and clerestory windows) C14 and mostly heraldic. The best was placed in the east window of the north aisle in 1934 (JB) and includes angels in the head and symbols of the four Evangelists. Until 1815 there was considerably more, which was auctioned off (3 p272).
- (South aisle, first window) Ward and Hughes, 1883 (B 45 p98).

Monument: (South aisle) Henry Corbould (d1844), designer of the Penny Black postage stamp. Profile medallion by C. Kelsey (Roscoe p685).

Piscina: (South aisle east end) Plain and pointed for the parochial chapel here.

Pulpit: Designed by Clayton and made by J. Forsyth (Ecd 18 ibid), with carved scenes from the life of Christ.

Tiles: (Under tower) More C14 ones.

Weather-vane: (Now in the south aisle) C14, in the form of a banner with the de Echingham arms. If not unique, survival from this date.

Joan Fitzalan de Arundel

Joan Fitzalan de Arundel as the fourth child of John Fitzalan de Arundel and Eleanor Maltravers was born about 1367. She had six siblings, namely: Margaret Fitzalan, Richard Fitzalan, John de Arundel, William de Arundel, Thomas (edward), and Henry. She died on 01 Sep 1404 in Echyngam, Sussex, England. When she was 18, She married William de Bryan(Brian),son of Guy de Bryan KG and Elizabeth Montacute, in 1385 in Sussex, England. When she was 33, She married William Echyngam,son of William Echyngam and Elizabeth Croil, about 1400 in Sussex, England.

Joan Fitzalan de Arundel was buried in Echyngam, Sussex, England.

William Echyngam and Joan Fitzalan de Arundel had the following children:

1. Thomas Echyngam was born in 1401 in Etchingam sussex, England. He died in 1444 in Etchingam sussex, England. He married Margaret Knyvett

William de Brian and Joan did not have any children.

ETCHINGHAM: SIR WILLIAM, JOAN, AND SIR THOMAS ECHINGHAM.

f. 738): 'He has now, May 15, 1778, lost his head & ye hilt of his sword.'

The brass is illustrated in Antiq. Repertory, ed. 1807, iii. 188; Arch. Jour. vii. 266; Ashdown, Armour, 177; Boutell, Series; Builder, LXII. 226; Druid, 162; M.B.S. Portfolio, II, pl. 13; Somerset and Dorset N. and Q. ix. 252; Woodman, 59.

II. Sir William Echingham, 1412[-13], his wife Joan, 1404, and their son Sir Thomas, 1444; inscription and one shield. Chancel.

Sir William is represented in armour of the Complete Plate Period, clean shaven, and with cropped hair. His armour consists of a steel gorget, breast- and back-plates, arm-pieces with nine overlapping plates on the shoulders, oblong palettes, buckle-shaped elbow-pieces, gauntlets with pointed cuffs and not divided for the fingers; a skirt of nine taces, leg- and knee-pieces with pointed plates below; pointed sollerets and rowel spurs; the hawdrick, ornamented with quatrefoils, is worn diagonally, the sword, with pear-shaped pommel and straight cross-guard, hangs straight at the left side, his feet rest on a lion, full-face. His wife Joan wears the 'horned' head-dress; flowing kirtle with tight sleeves; a mantle falling to the ground, fastened across the front with tasselled cords; a small dog with a collar of bells lies by her right foot; the point of her left foot appears beneath her robe.

The effigy of their son Sir Thomas is identical with that of his father, with the exception of the elbow-pieces which are fan-shaped. The figures measure 4 ft. 3 in. and 4 ft. 1 in. The foot-inscription, 4 ft. 3 in., of three lines, is in black letter:

Translation: 'Here lie William Echingham, Knight, lord of Etchingham, who died on the 20th day of the month of March A.D. 1412, and the lady Joan, his wife, who died on the first day of the month of September, A.D. 1404, and Thomas Echingham, Knight, lord also of Etchingham, their son, who died on the 15th day of October A.D. 1444, on whose souls may God have mercy. Amen.'

There is a triple canopy with slender side-shafts; their finials and the two intervening pinnacles bore four shields—half of one remains, the impaled half only: Quarterly, I and IV Gules a lion rampant or, for Fitzalan; II and III Sable fretty or, for Maltravers. There were four more shields below the inscription, of which only the

Notes for Reimbert Echyngham:

History of Sussex gives the information that Reimbert "the Sheriff" owned extensive possessions including Salehurst, Mountfield, Ninfield, Udimore, Whatlington, Cortesley and other estates and was the founder of the influential house of Echyngham or Etchyngham or Echyngham. this information was found in a deed dated about 1100 which also refers to Reimbert's two nephews, Richard.

It is possible that this family came over to England as liege men of Robert, Earl of Eu, in Normandy ,one of the principal counselors of William the conqueror, according to Spencer Hall -"Echyngham of Echyngham" pub 1850 The name is not found among the alliances of the nobility of France. The Earls of Ewe held great possessions in England, but after the conquest of Normandy by the French, these were estreated. In consequence of the sequestration of lands belonging to Englishmen by Philip, King of France, Henry III seized the castles of Hastings and Tykehull and other lands held by the Earls of Ewe as :Terra Normanorum:"(Norman Territory) and finally by the adherence of William de Yssonden, the 7th baron, to the French, the barony was declared forfeited. The family of Echyngham was also connected with the family of Aquila. Gilbert de Aquila, the fourth in succession from the conquest, is said to have forfeited all his lands for going into iNormandy without the King's license. While the families of Ewe and Quila possessed power, that of Echyngham was advanced. Called the father of the Echyngham family and probably came in 1066 with the 'Count of Eu and was his leigeman

Reimbert Echyngham had the following child:

2. i. DRU<sup>2</sup> ECHYNGHAM<sup>2</sup>.

Notes for Dru Echyngham:

Dru of Pevensky was the son of Reimbert(drago) who is called the father of the Echyngham family. He no doubt came with the Count of Eu as a leigeman and continued to serve him via several generations. He probably got the name Echyngham as he lived in the area of Echyngham and was distinguished as of Echyngham. They adopted this as their name.

Dru Echyngham had the following child:

3. i. SIMON<sup>3</sup> ECHYNGHAM<sup>3</sup>. He died before 1166<sup>4</sup>.

3. SIMON<sup>3</sup> ECHYNGHAM (DRU<sup>2</sup>, REIMBERT<sup>1</sup>)<sup>3</sup>. He died before 1166<sup>4</sup>.

Notes for Simon Echyngham:

Simon is named in a deed dated 1100 as simon, son of Dru which Dru was the heir of Reimbert, as he is styled in a 1100 deed.was living in 1150

Simon Echyngham had the following child:

4. i. WILLIAM<sup>4</sup> ECHYNGHAM. He died about 1211. He married ALA. She was born in Probably Padbury Buckinghamshire.

Generation 4 (con't)

Notes for William Echyngham:

William gave his son Simon land of Beddingham abt 1183 and this might be on the event of the marriage of Simon. This land stayed in the Echyngham family for over 200 years

The descent of the land in Padbury is given as this.

1. Drago of Pevensey died between 1130
2. Simon fitz Drago (de Echyngham) died by 1165
3. William de Echyngham 1166, alive--dead by 1211 probably wife Ala of Padbury ,Bucks
4. Simon de Echingham died bef 1242
5. William de Echingham dsp1253
6. Simon de Echingham

In Hilary Term 15 John 1214 is a court case in Bucks, concerning William Echyngham and wife Emma. They owned a well known mill in the area. This is no doubt the one at Padbury.

Later in the Echyngham family James Echyngham is still involved with land in Bucks and the Wolverton family.

There is a William that gave his son Simon, Beddingham land in 1183 probably as a marriage settlement.

Curia Regil Roll 1206 Buckingham

Sibila de Tingrie(who was married to Ingeram de Fiennes, the progenitor of the Fiennes who married Elizabeth de Echingham) has a court case against William de Hechingham(Echyngham) for 4 acres of land with appurtenances in Wendover . Wendover was inheritance of Sibila and stayed in the family for a long time. William Echyngham was married to Ala.

Notes for Ala:

Land in Padbury, Buckinghamshire was given as part of wedding dowry. This land is found still in the family at the time of James Echyngham in 1346 and James holding 1/2 a fee in Padbury with John son of John de Wolverton holding the overlordship(Feudal Aids v I p 125) .

Ala was given in marriage to William de Echyngham with a moiety of the manor of Padbury and she later gave her moiety to the advowson of the church to Bradwell Priory. Ref: G R Elvey "Luffield Priory Charters" part II publish by the Buckinghamshire and Northamptonshir records societies 1975 p xlii

The descent of the Wolvertons is found in VCR Northants v 5 page 422 in the discussion on Wick Hamon

If the mill in Padbury it was probably part of the marriage portion of Ala (Emma or Alice???) daughter of Hamo (d 1185) son of Meinfelin and Amable, Daughter of William Mauduit II, the ancestors of the Wolverton family.

Ala's brother, Hamo was aged 20 when his father died and in the king's wardship. He is described in the Rotuli Dominabus (p 39) as being of the progeny of the earl of Warenne through his father and grandson of William Mauduit, through his mother.

William Echyngham and Ala had the following child:

5. i. SIMON<sup>5</sup> ECHYNGHAM<sup>5</sup> was born in 1185. He died about 1244 in England. He married Alice Fitz Reinfrid, daughter of Jocelyn Fitz Reinfrid before 1216 in Sussex, England.

Generation 5

5. SIMON<sup>5</sup> ECHYNGHAM (William<sup>4</sup>, Simon<sup>3</sup>, Dru<sup>2</sup>, Reimbert<sup>1</sup>)<sup>5</sup> was born in 1185. He died about 1244 in England. He married Alice Fitz Reinfrid, daughter of Jocelyn Fitz Reinfrid before 1216 in Sussex, England.

Notes for Simon Echyngham:

Simon was a witness to a charter of Raoul de Lusignan,, Earl of Ewe, who died in 1217, enlarging and confirming the gifts of Alice, his widow, to the Abbey of Robertsbridge. Simon was sheriff in 1235 of Sussex. Simon had a court case with William Marshall, Earl of Pembroke over the marriage of his daughter Sibelle with Wm St. Leger. Pembroke accused him of marrying his daughter to Wm St. Leger for the lands of St. Leger.

Curis Regis Rolls 1225-1226 Sussex

William Marshal, earl of Pembroke, petitions through his attorney that Simon of Etchingham should restore to him the custody of the land and heir of Geoffrey de St. Leger, whose custody pertains to him, because Geoffrey held from him for military service, he says.

And Simon comes and says that he should not have to answer this writ, because he does not have any of Geoffrey's land; and since the writ says that he should restore custody of the land to (Geoffrey) and he holds nothing not ever did hold anything, he seeks (the court's) judgment to whether he should answer this writ. And, saving this (judgment), he says that he never absconded with that heir, for countess Alice of Eu, from whom (Geoffrey's) heir holds seven knights' fees, had custody of that heir on account of those fees; and she married him (i.e. gave him in marriage) so that he already has children by his wife. And hence he refuses to answer this writ, unless the court considers he should.

And the earl says through his attorney that Simon wickedly absconded with that heir, so that he married the daughter of Simon who had him in Custody; and he offers to prove this against him.

And Simon denies absconding with the heir But in truth the heir married (Simon's) daughter through the countess and at some time (the heir) came to (Simon's) house on account of his daughter, and not by any other means. Etc

The book "Les Histories de St. Leger" by Bernard St. Leger in 1986 is in French and I got it from the interlibrary loan and when I translated it seems to say that Alice, Countess of Eu married as her second husband Simon de Echyngham. Evidently when the French translated the Latin to French they didn't get the phrase ( gave him in marriage and mistook this).

I had this looked up and translated by the University of Sheffield, England who has the books. They gave me the above translation and said this:

" I admit the Latin is ambiguous, but the text does not make sense if Simon and Alice are husband and wife since Simon denies having any say in Geoffrey's marriage. Moreover, no 2469(Easter 1226 )shows Simon and Alice in court against each other , yet there is no suggestion that they were married. Alice appears in many cases but always on her own account, whereas a married woman would normally have to acknowledge her husband's authority.

Generation 5 (con't)

You may be interested to know that in 1219, when Alice(Countess) recovered her confiscated lands in France from Philip Augustus after her husband's; death; the king of France forbade her to marry again without his permission. I suspect that he would have been unlikely to allow her to marry and English Sheriff.(Echyngam"

In the St. Leger book the name of Sybil is given and the marriage of William St. Leger to Sybil de Echyngam.

I wonder if Hall in Echyngam of Echyngahm picked this Alice, Countess of Eu, name and just decided to give this Alice de Reinfried as wife to Simon.

The St. Leger book has 3 children for Simon, Wm, Simon and Sybil and follows them. In fact the Echyngam arms-seal were given to them by the St. Leger family they married into.

Margery St. Leger married Robert Echyngam and Simon and William St. Leger called him Brother in Law

Knights of Edward I list Sr Simon age 35 Brother , heir of Wm who died 25 Mar 1253. Summoned as a knight in Rape of Hastings to defend coast 1296. Mentioned as sometime holding 7j Kt fees (Inq 1 Jan 1320)

King John took offense at his fortification of his house without license. The king John ordered the sheriff of Sussex to take with him a posse comitatus and go and demolish it , It is not known if this was done or not 1229 Henry III V2 p 299-Simon de Echingham and 3 others were constituted itinerant justices to choose 12 legal knights in the county of Sussex who are not connected to the Canterbury bishop in his land in Scrippeneye and in Lydesey, the land of the bishop of Winchester. etc.

Notes for Alice Fitz Reinfrid:

there was a widow of Simon Echyngam called Ala against whom a writ of attachment was issued respecting certain sea walls between Seaford and Lewes in the reign of King John (Abbexuatui Okacutiryn page 69)

Only Stuart Hall in his book Echyngam of Echyngam has listed Alice Fitz Reinfrid as wife of Simon Echyngam. I am not sure this is correct. More research needs to be done as no where can I find proof of this and he gave no proof in his book

I do find that Roger Reinfrid who had a son Gilbert Fitzreinfrid was sheriff of Sussex in 1176 and also associated with the Arundel family and it could be that while in Sussex he family of Echyngam and Reinfrid had a marriage. This might be proof by association of events, but at least we know the Reinfrid were in the area at one time.

Simon Echyngam and Alice Fitz Reinfrid had the following children:

Generation 5 (con't)

- i. WILLIAM<sup>6</sup> ECHYNGHAM was born about 1216 in Sussex England. He died on 25 Mar 1253. He married Margaret de Montagu, daughter of William de Montagu in 1246. She was born in Chiselborough, Somerset, England. She died after 1257.

Notes for William Echyngham:

William is called son of Simon in the records. No children of this marriage He had at death.. chorleberg manor, Surrey, Echyngham and Odmere manors, Sussex. Inquest Post Mortem 1253. MS Harl. 4120.

Knights of Edward I William is listed and mentions of his land near Rye 15 May 1247(Cart. R)a His Inq 25 March 1253. He held moiety of Chiselberge Manor, Somerset in right of wife Margery, and also Echyngham and udimore Manors, Sussex and lands in Hastings and left brother heir Simon age 35 At Inq. Qualified for Knighthood

In the book The Sinclairs of England page 293 it states that Margery Montagaue, married William one of the lords of Echyngham.,the knighly family of sussex. In the ancient church of Etchyngham the Sinclair arms of the later Aldham (Audham) family is quartered with theirs, than which there could not be any beter proof of, at least affinity.

6. ii. SIMON ECHYNGHAM was born about 1218 in Echyngham, Sussex, England<sup>6</sup>. He died about 1268. He married PAULINA.
7. iii. SIBELLE ECHYNGHAM<sup>7, 8</sup> was born in 1220 in Sussex, England. She married William St. Leger, son of Geoffrey St. Leger and Joan in 1225. He was born in 1215. He died in 1262 in Wertlinger, Sussex.

Generation 6

6. SIMON<sup>6</sup> ECHYNGHAM (Simon<sup>5</sup>, William<sup>4</sup>, Simon<sup>3</sup>, Dru<sup>2</sup>, Reimbert<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1218 in Echyngham, Sussex, England<sup>6</sup>. He died about 1268. He married PAULINA.

Notes for Simon Echyngham:

Simon is the heir of his brother William who dies young and without heirs. Simon is listed as brother of Wm and son of Simon in the records. Simon is listed as age 35 when his brother died in 1253 so born about 1218

Knights of Edward I state that Simon age 35, brother heir of William de Echyngham

Notes for Paulina:

Not positive that her last name is St. Leger, but evidence from some records point toward this. Roger de St. Leger de Sworknerse names Simon Echyngham as his brother in law.

Simon Echyngham and Paulina had the following children:

8. i. WILLIAM<sup>7</sup> ECHYNGHAM. He died on 11 May 1294. He married KATHERINE.
- ii. ROBERT ECHYNGHAM<sup>9</sup> was born about 1248. He married Margery St Leger, daughter of William St Leger de Sowkerness and Christina before 1293.

Notes for Robert Echyngham:

Probably no children of this marriage

7. SIBELLE<sup>6</sup> ECHYNGHAM (Simon<sup>5</sup>, William<sup>4</sup>, Simon<sup>3</sup>, Dru<sup>2</sup>, Reimbert<sup>1</sup>)<sup>7, 8</sup> was born in 1220 in Sussex,

Generation 6 (con't)

England. She married William St. Leger, son of Geoffrey St. Leger and Joan in 1225. He was born in 1215. He died in 1262 in Wertlinger, Sussex.

Notes for Sibelle Echyngam:

Sibelle is discussed in length in a lawsuit in 1225 between Earl of Pembroke and Simon Echyngam. Simon is accused by the Earl of taking the property of William St. Leger by marrying his daughter to Wm. Simon denies this and says that Wm and Sibelle are living with them and nothing else. Sibelle was married as a child and Wm St. Leger was a minor. This was done in these times to secure land and heritage, but the marriage was not consummated until they were of age. William St. Leger father died about 1224.

Notes for William St. Leger:

William is listed in the book "Les Saint Legers A Travers L'Historie by Marucie Saint Leger in 1989 He is stated as being born between 1210 ad 1215 and a minor at his fathers death in 1224 . In the book " Les Saint Legers Les Travers L'Historie by Maru ice and Bernard St. Leger in 1989 states that Simon was married to Alice Countess of Eu.. This is not correct. Evidently they got the wrong translation . The correct translation of the Latin was done in 2004 . Alice, Countess of Eu was forbidden to marry by the King of France without his permission when her lands were given back to her. She probably would not have married a knight in the first place. See Curia Regis Rolls 1225-6 for this case.

History of sussex tells of William St. Letger marrying the daughter of Simon St. Leger. She was Sibelle as listed in the Plea rolls suit in 1225 He had his lands held by the King until 1244 and no doubt due to this suit. In 1254 he rceiveed free warren in his demense lands of Fairlight .The history of Sussex says he died without male heirs, but that isnot so. He died with 2 sons and maybe a daughter Alicee.

William St. Leger and Sibelle Echyngam had the following children:

9. i. GEOFFREY<sup>7</sup> ST. LEGER<sup>10</sup> was born about 1240. He died in 1272. He married AGNES DE WARBLETON.
- ii. SIMON ST. LEGER was born in 1242. He died in 1315.

Notes for Simon St. Leger:

In the year 1269-70 he and h is brother Geofrey madewittness of William de Northye and Roger de Cobbedford at the Robertsbridge abbey of their donations. 1295 Simon was paart of the group that went with Kng Edaard L on an expedition to Ireland

Notes for William Echyngam:

Notes for Katherine:

I have no proof of this name of Katherine, but copied it from the book " Scenes of Provincial Life Knightly families in Sussex 1280--1400 by Nigel Saul.

William Echyngham and Katherine had the following children:

10. i. WILLIAM<sup>8</sup> ECHYNGHAM<sup>11</sup> was born in 1266. He died on 19 Jun 1326. He married EVA DE STOPHAM.
- ii. ROBERT ECHYNGHAM<sup>12</sup>. He died in 1328. He married PETRONELLA ANDREWS. He married JOAN HUSSEE.

Notes for Robert Echyngham:

Robert was summoned to court 1 Edward 1327 but died the following year. He was summoned to bring horse and arms. Robert died with no heir and his brother Simon was next in line for the Lord of Echyngham title. No children of these marriages,.

Robert was also summoned for the coronation of the King and Queen in 1308 and was a knight of the shire for Sussex to parliament held at Westminster 20 Jan 1315, 1321, and at York 1322. He performed military duty against the Scots from 1316-1322 Robert the second son succeeded William when he died and he was a career Knight. He died about 18 months after William and his 3rd brother Simon, rector of Herstmonceaux succeeded him. Robert accompanied his elder brother William to the battle of Falkirk. He went with the DeSpencers and was with the King in 1301. He was admitted to the Knighthood with a fee of 40 marks received from the towns of Rye and Winchelsea

In 1324 when Robert was sent to Gascony by the King on a diplomatic mission. He was there until the truce of La Reol in September. He was also sent by the Earl of Kent to tell Edward II what had been happening to the Ducy and ask him to send reinforcements. He made many trips for the King and in 1325, he went with young Prince Edward to Gascony to pay homage to the King.

Since Robert died without heirs the inheritance moved to his brother Simon, a monk at Robertsbridge and when he died the title moved to their nephew James, son of the younger brother Richard.

James inherited the Lordship from his uncle Simon. James had a Seal that has the Echyngam court of arms impaled with the arms of Dakeney. Notes for Joan Dakeney:

The shield of James Echyngam has his arms impaled with one that looks like one in Foster" Joan Dabeni". Joan is married and still has a guardian according to Nigel Saul in his book " Scenes of Provincial Life" Knightly family of Sussex 1986. The shield has been identified as probably belonging to Baldwin Daubeney or Dakeny. Need to find more. The shield is blue with gold cross and lions rampant and listed in Fosters Heraldry. Nigel Saul who wrote the book "Scene from provincial Life' says a member of the college of Arms identified the impaled shield as Dakeney.

article of Levied Taxes 1367-1413 has Joanfd Echyngam with manioars ofBedyngam and Monatfeld total 40 L

James Echyngam and Joan Dakeney had the following children:

- i. ROBERT<sup>10</sup> ECHYNGHAM. He died before 1380. He married JOAN ATTE GATE.

Notes for Robert Echyngam:

Robert was sheriff of Greater Dixter in 1390. the house at Greater Dixter where they lived is still standing today and has the arms of Echyngam carved on a beam. Joan and Robert did not have children so the Dixter estate passed to his brother Richard. Richard passed it on to his son Robert. The house stayed in the Echyngam family coming back to Thomas Echyngam on the death of the widow of Robert and then from Thomas via his daughter and granddaughter to Andrew Windsor who had it until about 1595 The Great Dixter home is still standing and the Echyngam arms are carved in the beams. The names of the owner of Great Dixter are known since 1370 and the Echyngam received it by Robert marrying the daughter of Homo at Gate ,Joan. They had no children and it went on to his brother.

Article titled " Descent of the Manor of Dixter "by L. F. Salzman pages 153-,5 discusses this ownership in detail. The manor appears for the first time in 1340 when Homo at Gate was to have one man at arms at Difcksterve. Hamo no doubt took his name from the manor of Gatecourt that was there and associated with Dixter. He states in the article that his daughter Joan married Robert Echyngam and after their deaths without issue, it passed to descendants of Roberts younger brother, Richard Echyngam. By 1411 Robert Echyngam occupied Dixter and Gatecourt at value of 201i .(lay subsidy rolls) this Roberts daughter married Richard Wakehurst and they had a son Richard who died during their lifetime and left 2 daughters, Elizabeth and Margaret who were left in the care of his widow. his brother in law John Gaynsford. The girls were abducted and married to the brothers Ricahrd and Nicholas Culpepper Their grandmother continued to live at Northiam and refused to give them property. According to the marriage papers of Richard Wakehurst and Elizabeth Echyngam with no male heirs the property went to the Echyngam family(Thomas Echyngam) Many lawsuits resulted over this,but the grandmothers decision stood.

Robert is listed as having the manors of Diksterbe and manor of Gatecourt total 40L

He married MARIE SHOYSWELL.

Notes for William Echyngham:

William was 15 and up when his father died so the birth date may be wrong as listed. He had lands in Jacques Court near Lydd in Kent and lands in Walland Marsh. He caused the Church at Etchingham to be restored. A wife Eliazbeth had dower assigned her in 1390 and land in Kent -Lydd. From documents in the Sussex family Historian March 1988 it might be that Elizabeth came from a Kent family or maybe the St. Leger family as the manors of Ivychurch and de Snave in Kent were given to Echyngham in an Exchange with William St. Leger de Socknersh in 1260 and in 1247 the property owners of Snave were James and William de Echyngham. He may have been married first to a Mary Shoyswell as the coat of arms are on his tomb. If he didn't marry a Shoyswell first then I would suggest that his mother was probably a Shoyswell.

Barry's genealogy has the list that gives Marie Shoyswell as marrying Wm. Echyngham and says "ye arms of Shoyswell impaled with Echyngham are in the quire left, on his tomb and on the upper window in the North side of the Church This leads one to believe that Shoyswell enters the family at this time or before instead of his grandson as suggested in Hall "Echyngham of Echyngham:" Also according to Barrys genealogy it shows William the son of this William married Alice Batisford and then Joan Fitzalan of Arundel

The article "the stained Glass windows of Nettlestead church" WE Ball page 228 Batisford and had at least Joan whom married Sir Wm Rikill (d 1407) but other information has other children including Elizabeth who married Sir Wm Brenchsley and lived in Kent. there is a will for Elizabeth Batisford Brenchsley but a deed in Wincheslea in 1415 executed by John Rikell , husband of Joan and her sister Elizabeth mentioned about land they received by heredity from their mother Joan. This is probably Joan Fitzalan and not Alice as afterwards Thomas Echyngham, son of William, calls this Elizabeth his sister. She had married Thomas Hoo and 2nd Thomas Lewknow

William Rykhill who died 1407 was married to a Rosa and they had children and a son John. Joan married John Rikhill(Rykhill) son of William and not William himself. In fact we can follow the children of John Rykhill and wife Joan; Proof from inquisition of 1415 naming Joan daughter of Wm and Joan as wife of John Rykhill

Notes for Marie Shoyswell:

Barrys Sussex genealogy give this marriage to Mary Shoyswell. The Shoyswell arms are on the tomb of William, not his grandson who is reported to have married a Shoyswell.. Hall in Echyngam of Echyngam evidently misread information. His work is not trustworthy

She died on 01 Sep 1404 in Echyngam, Sussex, England.

Notes for William Echyngam:

William married first Alice Batisford, daughter of Margery Peplsham and William Batisford of Sussex. She evidently died early and he married a second time to Joan Fitzalan Arundel, the widow of Wm de Brien who died 1395 According to records Brien died without issue. Wm and Joan were probably married after 1398 and only married a few years before she died in 1404 leaving at least Thomas Echyngam.. William was at least 41 when he married Joan Fitzalan this was no doubt a second marriage so that gives help to the idea of Alice Batisford being the first wife. . Nigel Saul in his book on the Echyngam family Scenes from Provincial Life, Knightly families in Sussex 1280-1400, has William marrying 1st Joan Fitzalan and second Joan Thorpe. I disagree with this as complete peerage gives Joan Thorpe as married to Robert Echyngam and he died without heirs. She married again to a Clifton.

The article "The Stained Glass Windows of Nettlestead Church" by W E Ball page 228, gives the family chart of William Batisford and Margaret Peplesham (d 1405) and it gives Sir William Echyngam married Alice Batisford /Battisford and had at least Joan who married William Rickhill(Rykill). This is wrong as William Rikhill (her father in law) who died 1407 was married ,when he died ,to Rosa Medlan and they had sons William and John, Nicholas and so the years don't fit. Records seen to indicate that it was John Rikhill , the son she married. But other information has William Batisford and Margaret Peplesham as having other children including Elizabeth who married Sir Wm Brenchley, a well know court lawyer, and they lived in Kent. There is a will for Elizabeth Batisford Brenchley on file at Canterbury in 1453 in which she leaves estate to Echyngam relatives Elizabeth Lewknor and Thomas Hoo .Her niece and gr nephew/ This should show some relationship and give proof that Joan and Elizabeth came via the Batisford line.

Notes for Alice Batisford:

In the Miscellanea Genealogica Vol 2 is a chart showing the descent of the Cralle family and it gives the information that Margery Peplesham was married 1st to Robert Cralle and 2nd to Wm Batisford. It gives Alice as a daughter who married Wm. Echyngham and had a daughters Joan & Elizabeth. . She died about 1398-9 as her mother did not mention her in the will in 1406 and also Wm Echyngham had married Joan Fitzalan probably after 1398 99 so I would say she died after 1398 as she is on deed with William in 1398 . We know that Wm was married to Joan Fitzalan before abt 1400 and we find a legal document for them dated 1400. also the chancery court case PRO C1/19/280-290 states that Joan and Elizabeth are sisters and their Mother was Alice Batisford and they sued their cousin Richard Fiennes for part of the manor of Buckholt which was the Batisford estate.

Notes for Joan Echyngam:

inquisition Winchelsea Tuesday after St Hilary 2 Henry V (1415)

John Rykhill, as in his right of Joan his wife, and Elizabeth her sister, daughters of William Lord of Etchingam, Knight, and of Joan his wife, have 36 3/8 yds in 2 Tofts lying together in the same quarter, which descended to them by hereditary right on the death of Joan their mother and are held of the king in chief by fee-farm of 8 3/4 being worth 11 1/4 d. yearly to John (as in the right of his wife Joan) and Elizabeth. 6 yds thereof are needed for the wall to the kings' damage and prejudice of 1 12/d yearly and to John's and Elizabeth's of 1 3/4 and half a farthing yearly. There remain to them 30 yards(sic) which are not enough to pay more yearly than 7 1/4d. to the king of his fee-farm and are worth to them 9 1/4 d and half a farthing yearly.

This brings into question who is Joan the mother of Joan and Elizabeth ..is it Joan Fitzalan or should it be Alice as of Alice Batisford. Could this be an error or is Joan Fitzalan truly the mother and also of Thomas Echyngam. Further evidence in a court case PRO C1/19/280-290 indicates that Joan and Elizabeth are sisters and related to the Batisford family. I have not seen the copy of the inquisition of Winchelsea in which is says "their mother Joan" and feel that the original has to be seen to confirm.

Joan Echyngam , daughter of Wm Echyngam , is listed in several articles including "The Stained Glass windows of Nettlestead church" and Arch. Geneologica Vol 3 as being married to Wm. Rykill who died 1407. William Rykill who died 1407 was married to Rosa Medlan and had 5 children and she didn't die until 1418. Her son William was married to Katherine, and John the second son , no doubt was the one who married Joan Echyngam . See the court case above, quoted from the records which give Joan as wife of John Rykhill. This is no doubt correct.

As more evidence comes in it is almost positive that she was the daughter of Alice Batisford and Wm Echyngam. Thomas Echyngam ,son of Wm Echyngam and 2nd wife Joan Fitzalan,who died 1444 but mentioned his sister Elizabeth Echyngam Hoo Lewknor and her husband Thomas Lewknor. So he called her "sister" and this would be `1/2 sister as he is for sure the son of Wm Echyngam and Joan Fitzalan Arundel

There is much wrong information in the literature saying Wm Rykill was the husband, but as it is shown above that it was wrong and indeed it was his son John Rykill, MP who married Joan.

The Rykill family lived at Eslingham now known as Frindsbury, was the place of residence

According to a court case Elizabeth Echyngam Lewknor and her sister Joan Echyngam Rykhill were involved with a court case against their cousin Richard Fiennes, whose mother was sister of Alice Batisford, for the interest of the manor of Buckholt. This is Batisford property so again points to relationship and mother being Alice Batisford.

Information sent by Anna Luppertz in 2006 gives this proof:John Assheby , cousin and heir of john

Haket, granted the manor of Buckholt in 134 to Wm Batisford . In 1423, the manor was held by Joan Brenchesle(sussx Arch Coll X 144 Feudal aids) daughter and heir of wm Batisford, Joan lived until 1453, and next year possession of the manor was disputed between Elizabeth,widow of sir Thomas Lewknor(Lewknor) and Joan Rykhill maiden name Echyngam)daughter of Joan Brenchley's sister Alice and sir Richard Fiennes, grandson of Joan's other sister Elizabeth (Add Ms 39376 fols 76,80,81. sir Richard evidently succeeded as Thomas Fiennes, Lord Dacre, his descendant died seized of the manor in 1534 (Chan. Inq; PM (Ser 2) LXXX 24) It subsequently follows the descent of Herstmonceau(q.v) until 1786

Also Elizabeth Batisford Brenchley in her will dated 1453,mentioned( her niece )Elizabeth Lewknor and ( gr nephew) Thomas Hoo as recipients. This also establishes the relationship to the Batisford family.

the date for the death of Joan Echyngam Rykill is taken from the court case when Joan Rykill Bruyn Daughter of John Rykill received property. Her mother would probably have been deceased by that time for her to get this property. so Joan Echyngam Rykill was deceased before that date.

VCH for Sussex states:

Alice who had a daughter Joan, firstly married to --Rikhill and secondly to Richard Bruyn(d 1413)--- Joan indeed did marry John Rykill son of William Rykhill .but the 2nd marriage is incorrect. Richard Bruyn was married to Joan Rykhill , daughter of Joan.as proved by further court actions and will of Joan Rikhill

Notes for John Rykhill(Rikhill):

He was a member of Parliament and was a shire knight for Kent in 1423. John is listed in the will of his mother Rosa Rykhill in 1418 and also in his fathers will of 1407.

John Rykhill(Rikhill) and Joan Echyngam had the following children:

28. i. JOAN<sup>13</sup> RIKELL<sup>13</sup> was born about 1416. She died in 1463 in All Hallow the Great, London. She married (1) RICHARD BRUYN after 1431. He was born in Cheveley, Cambridgeshire. He died after 1462. She married (2) JAMES HOPWOOD before 25 Nov 1431.
  29. ii. MAUD RIKELL. She married WILLIAM LEE. He died in 1442.
24. ELIZABETH<sup>12</sup> ECHYNGHAM (William<sup>11</sup>, William<sup>10</sup>, James<sup>9</sup>, Richard<sup>8</sup>, William<sup>7</sup>, Simon<sup>6</sup>, Simon<sup>5</sup>, William<sup>4</sup>, Simon<sup>3</sup>, Dru<sup>2</sup>, Reimbert<sup>1</sup>)<sup>20, 23, 24</sup> was born in 1388. She married (1) THOMAS LEWKNOR in 1422. He was born about 1392. He died in 1452. She married (2) THOMAS HOO, son of William Hoo and Alice St Omer about 1415. He was born in 1360 in Bedfordshire, England. He died on 23 Aug 1420.

Notes for Elizabeth Echyngam:

In 1453 Joan Batisford Brenchley left a will and she named Dame Eliabeth Lewknor and Thomas Hoo, squire. This should be Elizabeth Echyngam, who first married Thomas Hoo and 2nd Thomas Lewknor, daughter of Alice Batisford who was sister of Joan and Niece of Joan Batisford Brenchley and Thomas Hoo son of Elizabeth who would be her great nephew.

In 1454 there is chancery court case between Elizabeth Lewknor and her sister Joan Echyngam Rykhill against their cousin Richard Fiennes, grandson of their aunt(Batisford) who had married Fiennes , for the possession of the manor of Buckholt. See PRO C1/18/280-290 This gives further proof that Elizabeth and Joan were daughters of wm Echyngam and Alice Batisford, first wife, instead of daughters of Joan Fitzalan.

VCH for Sussex states Elizabeth first husband was Sir Wm Fynes or Fiennes (d 1407) from "Daughters, Wives and Widows after the Black Death" Mavis Mart 1998 page 96 When Elizabeth Echingham(the daughter of Sir Wm Etchngnam) married Sir Thomas Hoo as his second wife, she was granted the manor of Wartling(valued at L 60) as her jointure. On Hoo's death in 1420 she remarried Sir Thomas Lewkenor, takingWartling with her as well as her dower rights in other Hoo manors.

Elizabeth was married to Lewknor for 34 years but on his death in 1454 she faced considerable opposition form her other stepson Roger Lewkenore the son of Phillippa Dallingridge.

Thomas Lewknor and Elizabeth Echyngham had the following children:

- i. RICHARD<sup>13</sup> LEWKNOR.
- ii. ROGER LEWKNOR.
- iii. JOAN LEWKNOR. She married HENRY FROWYK.

Thomas Hoo and Elizabeth Echyngham had the following child:

- i. THOMAS II<sup>13</sup> HOO was born in 1416. He died on 08 Oct 1486 in England. He married ALICIA URREY.

Notes for Thomas II Hoo:

No children of this marriage. According to the writ of 17 Oct 1486, he left his estate to his cousin Elizabeth St. Clair, daughter of his aunt Margaret Hoo and also to his cousin, son of Eleanor St.Clare daughter of Margaret Hoo St. Clare who married a Gage and to Roger Harcourt who was also a son of Edith St. Clare and she was daughter of Margaet Hoo , his aunt. His brother was deceased.
He was in parliament in 1446 1448`

25. THOMAS<sup>12</sup> ECHYNGHAM (William<sup>11</sup>, William<sup>10</sup>, James<sup>9</sup>, Richard<sup>8</sup>, William<sup>7</sup>, Simon<sup>6</sup>, Simon<sup>5</sup>, William<sup>4</sup>, Simon<sup>3</sup>, Dru<sup>2</sup>, Reimbert<sup>1</sup>) was born in 1401 in Etchingam sussex, England. He died in 1444 in Etchingam sussex, England. He married (1) MARGARET KNYVETT, daughter of John Knyvett and Joan de Botetourte after 1424. She was born about 1400. She died after 1467. He married MAYBE SHOYSWELL.

Notes for Thomas Echyngham:

There is a reference stated by Spencer Hall in his article "Echyngham of Echyngham" 1850 when he states that Thomas married first Agnes Shoyswell daughter of John Shoyswell. No proof, no references. No records seem to be out there and since he married a second time to Margaret Knyvett at about age 24 ot so he would have been very young. But that is possible.

Berry's Sussex genealogy states that Wm Echyngham married Marie Shoyswell daughter of John Shoyswell. not Agnes. The Shoyswell arms are on the tomb of the earlier William, grandfather of Thomas born 1401, I would suspect that this is where the Shoyswell family belongs. If they were not married into the Echyngham family by that time they would not be on his tomb.

Also a quote from Berry's Sussex Genealogy gives this. " He (William) built the church of Etchingam, ye arms of Shoyswell impaled with his on his monument in ye quire and single in the upper window on ye north side of the chancel" These words came before Thomas was born.

It is possible that Thomas was married before 1425, when he married probably for the second time, to Margaret Knyvett , de Tye, Marney, widow.

Thomas never calls Margaret Knyvett , mother. Margaret mentions her son Richard in her different land deeds and suits,.

Early Chancery proceedings Bundle 29 No 41 as written in Genealogist XXI p 136 regarding the will of Thomas Echyngham, Squire, son and heir of Thomas Echyngham, Knight.

Some time ago I questioned a reference from the Patent Rolls of 1415 regarding Thomas Echyngham, pastor of Tilbury, Clare. I was trying to identify this Thomas Echyngham. I had an Essex researcher go to the source for this and here is what he said. Newcourt (1:564) has a Thomas Gohyngham taking over the rectory in April 4 1397. Newcourt in his index uses Gohyngham not Echyngham. The writing was such that the transcribers used E instead of G. The researcher also states Goldingham or Goldynghams are numerous in the area and have a manor there. Therefore..it was not Thomas Echyngham but Thomas Goldyngham that was pastor. Eliminates looking further into it being Echyngham from the book " Daughters Wives Widows of Black Death." Mavis Mate page 155

Sir Thomas Echyngham 1 was frequently appointed to commissions of array and to commissions of walls and ditches. In the 1440's as Justice of the Peace, he was an active member of the Bench. When Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, was Warden of the Cinque Ports, Echyngham served as his Lt. He was appointed overseer of the Sussex parks of the Archbishop of Canterbury and in 1427/38 he spent part of the year at Mayfield, catching deer for the archiepiscopal laarder. When the new Archbishop, John Stratford, was enthroned, he was present at the ceremonies. Likewise his son (Thomas II) was present at the enthronement of Thomas Bourchier and later served as beadle for the archiepiscopal manor of Aldington.

Notes for Margaret Knyvett:

Margaret Knyvett was married to Robert de Tye, knight said to be the son of Robert de Tye, Knight(d 1382/3 of Barsham, Suffolk, before October 11, 1410 when John Knyvett granted various properties in Northampton shire to Robert Ty , Knight and Margaret his wife. Robert de Tye must have been born , post Mortem if his father was Robert de Tye dead by 24 Aug 1383. Robert had only a daughter Dionisia under 14 years and his wife Elizabeth was with child when he made his will in April 1382. Elizabeth mentioned no children when she made her will which was proved on 25 Sept 1383 This probable child , Robert, died 1415 and then buried in the church of Sotterley, Suffolk. another memorial in this church is to Aymer de Wilington and his wife Hawise. Aymer was the uncle of Robert de Tye(died 1381) who acknowledged this relationship in his will of 1382. There was no issue from that marriage.

Charter of 1406, Calendar of patent rolls Henry IV 1405-6 page 230 April 8, Westminster.
Summary: Complaint by Robert de Tye,"Chivaler" that when lately in his fee at Barsham, Suffolk etc. Robert was on the king's service in Wales, So we have a Robert alive in 1406. He would have been about 23 years of age.

Margaret married secondly after the death of Robert de Tye in 1415, Thomas Marney, Knight of Layer Marney, Essex. Thomas was born 6 Feb 1392/3 according to his father's IPM taken in 1414 and would have been about 22 years at this marriage. Thomas died s.p.m. before 7 Nov 1421 when his will was proved at the PCC(PRO Prob 11.2b) He named his wife Margaret as one of the executors.

There are several court cases regarding the daughter of Thomas Marney and Margaret Knyvett. 1423/4 PRO C 139/13/55: Marney, Margaret, daughter and heir of Thomas, Knight . Oxon. Bucks, 2 Henr VI online-Chevely Manor and estaes page 46-9:

Sibyl Loveday's daughter and heir Catherine married Roger Tichborne, who sold the reversion of Cheveley to John Pulteney in 1336. (fn. 85) Pulteney, knighted in 1337 and in possession by 1340, (fn. 86) died in 1349, and in 1350 his widow Margaret married Nicholas Loveyn (knighted 1351). (fn. 87) The Loveyns initially settled the manor after their deaths on Margaret's son Sir William Pulteney, (fn. 88) who died in 1367 (fn. 89) and was survived by Loveyn. At Loveyn's death in 1375 he left Cheveley in the hands of his feoffees for 15 years or until his only son Nicholas should come of age. The latter evidently did not reach maturity, and the feoffees probably sold the manor to William Rickhill in or after 1390. Rickhill, who bought the neighbouring manor of Ditton Camoys from one of Loveyn's executors in 1393, certainly had the advowson of Cheveley by 1405 and the manor by 1407, and died in 1407 or 1408. (fn. 90) His son John owned the manor in 1412 and a younger son Nicholas in 1428. (fn. 91) By 1431 Sir Nicholas Loveyn's grandson and heir Richard Chamberlain claimed and perhaps controlled the manor, (fn. 92) but in 1434 it belonged to John Rickhill's daughter and heir Joan and her husband Richard Bruyn. Bruyn and our Member sat together in the Parliament of 1435 and may perhaps have married sisters, for in Nov 1441 Lee conveyed a reversionary interest in his manor of Aston to Bruyn, whom he described as his brother . Prestwick, clerk John Gregge, John Watele, John Bederynden, John Gibbs, Richard Wakehurst. Thomas Knyvett . And Wm Clark to have and to hold to them and their heirs to the use and benefit of the said Thomas Echingam, Knight and to perform therefore his last will by Force which "astate of the said manor and advowson with the appurtenances the said Reynold and his said Coffees were seized and afterwards the said Thomas Echyngam, knight, declared thereof his last will. That the said Reynold and his coffees should make estate thereof to Margaret, wife of the said Thomas Echingam, Knight said to all the heirs made of his body begotten with that the said Richard Echingam would release to the said Thomas Echingam, squire , all his rights he had ad in the land of Gruylkynde in Kent. That late were the said Thomas Echyngam, Knits. And if it happened that the said Richard Echyngam to die without such issue of his body begotten, then the manor and advowson with all appurtenances should remain to the said Thomas Echingam, squire and to his heirs made of his body begotten and for default of e=such issue the remainder therefore to the right heirs of William Echyngam, Knight. and afterwards the said Thomas Echyngam, Knight, died.

And afterwards the said Reynold Cobbham, Thomas Lewknor, William Prestwick, John Garegge, John Watele, John Boderynden, John Gibbs, Richard Wakehurst and Thomas Knyvett died and the said Williams Parker them outlived.

and said Thomas Echyngam , squire, death of his father required said Richard Echingam to release his right that he held in the Gruyllkynd to the said Thomas Echingam, squire and to do so he flatly refused.

Whereupon the said Thomas Echingam, squire, required the said William Parker to make astate of the said manor and advowson with all the appurtenances to said Margaret for the time of her life that remainder to said Thomas Echingam, squire, and to his male heirs, And to that the said Wm. Parker refused.

Wherefore, please it your gracious lordship these premises tenderly to consider and that your said Oratour hath no remedy by the common law to grant a writ to be directed to the said Wm. parker to appear before you to the Kings 'chancery at a certain day upon a certain time by your great wisdom to be lamented and there to do and received upon the promises that the good faith and conscience required for the love of God and in way of Charity. John Boteler de Odyner in Co Sussex Yoeman

Note: Richard Wakehurst died 4/ Jan 1454-5. He was husband of Elizabeth Echingam, daughter of Robert Echyngam and she died 9 July 1464

Another document from Battle Abbey Charters dated Bexhill Aug 5 1486 state that the daughters of Sir Thomas, Elizabeth late wife of Roger Fiennes and Margaret late with of Sir John Elrington (her 3rd husband) were widows and daughters of Sir Thomas Echyngam . deceased. This gives us maybe a date for the death of Thomas, it sounds like before 1486.

Thomas Echyngham was married to Eleanor Hoo, daughter of his second marriage. She was 6 when her father died in 1455.. His will bequasted 1000 marks to be divided among his daughters as marriage portions provided they agree to be truled and governed by their mother and their uncle, hoo's half brother Sir Thomas Hoo. Eleanor was married to Thomas Echyngham son of Thomas Echyngham II. She was about 15 and he also young , so the marriage might not hae been consummated. Thomas died before eleanor reached age of 15. Eleanor "married herself": to James Carew without consent . They claimed the dowry they believed that Etchingam had repaid Hoo, but were refused on the grounds that Eleanor had not been ruled or governed by her guardians before contractobn her second marriage. PRO C 1/44/187; C 1/44/188 sas Hoo also claimed the Echyngham had no repaid the dowry ; James Carew was the seond son and ultimately the heir of Sir Nichilas Carew of Beeington(Surrey)

Notes for Elizabeth Echyngam:

The descendants of Elizabeth Echyngam, by her second marriage, obtained Echyngam as their share of the family possessions. In Hall's "Echyngam of Echyngam" he lists Sir Goddard Oxenbridge one place as husband and another place he calls Thomas Oxenbridge husband. Goddard Oxenbridge's will was not proved until 1531 (PCC 8 Thower) and it is probable that Elizabeth Echyngam's husband was Robert Oxenbridge, whose daughter Agnes was interred at Etchingam in 1489( a brass is in the Church) So some questions about this. The Genealogist XXI p 246 1906 states that probably Agnes was the daughter of Elizabeth and Robert Oxenbridge not

Generation 15 (con't)

Sir Edward Echyngam oldest son of John Echyngam of Barsham became a distinguished commander both on land and sea. He served in the naval expedition against the French before Berst in 1513 and his letter to cardinal Wolsey, announcing the loss of the English Admiral, sir Edward Howard, is to be found in the state papers. In Sept of the same year he was knighted at Flodden. His will dated 18 June 1527 was proved 7 Feb 1527. IPM taken at Beccles co. Suffolk. 1 Sept 1539. He stated that his first wife was buried on the north side of the lady Chapel in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, Ireland. she was named Mary. His second wife Anne Everard died in 1538 in Norfolk. She was the widow of Sir Edward Lewknor of Kingston Bowsey, Somerset. The Everard family is also found in the visitation of Norfolk. Ann is probably not the wife of the son and heir of Edward Lewknor-Edward Lewknor the younger page 15 George Dalyson on Nov 8, 1514 conveyed land at Broughton and all the lands in Cransley to use of Edward Dalyson and wife Elizabeth and also to Edward Echyngam the residue of all the said manor to the use of George Dalyson and Ann, then his wife. and the remainder to Edward and Elizabeth Dalyson. Sir Edward Echyngam was of Ipswich, Knight.

Barsham, Norfolk is 2 miles from Beccles and 4 from Bun gay. It has the church of holy Trinity and one of the earliest round towers, with a little picket of a spire. The most interesting feature is the tracery of the east window which extends to the whole of the east and in stone and flint, forming lozenge shapes. The work is 16th century and it is thought the design was suggested by the coat of arms of Sir Edward Echyngam, who is buried in the sanctuary. His shield was the east end of the church turned upside down.

Sir Edward had a son Osborn. He never calls him son in his will but leaves great estate to him. Later Osborn calls Anne Echyngam Hopton his sister. If Osborne was the son of first wife, it seems he would have called him that. Probably illegitimate

Will of Edward Echyngam dated 1527 specifically names Osborne Echyngam and leaves him several manors under item 1 in his will he gives to Osborn Echyngam my house in Kessinglande that I bought of Montgomery and all land to him and his heirs forever etc and also the house that I bought of Nicholas Hassborough and also all the house and land that I bought from Sir Fitzcheueri and several other pieces. See Gen XXI page 56 for the entire will. He never calls Osborn son but calls Ann and Mary daughters. Later Osborn calls Ann Echyngam Hopton his sister

He died in 1546. He married KATHERINE. He married MARY. She died on 30 Jul 1584 in Barsham, Norfolk.

Notes for Osborne Echyngham:

Sir Osborne Echyngham was probably the son or illegitimate son of Sir Edward Echyngham. Sir Osborne became marshal of the Army in Ireland, was knighted at Whitehall in 1529 and revived from Henry VIII a grant of the Monastery of Dunbrody, Co. Wexford, Ireland, 4 Oct 1545. (Records Irish State Papers)

Series 15, 15 April 1580 proceedings in the examination in controversy for the abbey of Dunbrody, claimed by Lady Echyngham and Edward her son against the interest of Sir William Drury, late Lord Justice. The will of Edward Echyngham dated 1527 specifically names Osborne and leaves him several manors. Under item 1 in his will he gives to Osborn Echyngham, my house in Kessinglonde that I bought of Montgomery and all land to him and his heirs forever, etc and also the house that I bought of Nicholas Hasaborough and also all the house and land that I bought from Sir Fitzcheuerell and several other pieces. (see Genealogist XXII page 56) for the will in its entirety.. He never calls Osborne son, but calls Ann and Mary daughters. Later, Sir Osborne in his will calls Ann Echyngham Hopton his sister. this shows there is a relationship. Only thing is that maybe Osborne was a son by Edwards first wife, Mary and maybe she was Mary Osborne-just speculation. He does give a good deal of land to Osborne so that he is either a legitimate son or illegitimate, but recognized. I have put him under the first wife of Edward, Mary?. there are Osborne families living in the area of Barsham, Norfolk. Such an unusual first name, it must be a family name. The very idea that he left so much land to Osborne, indeed leads one to believe he was blood relation and son.

Katherine was the first wife of Osborne.
